

Continuity and changeability is durability

Zijlstra, H

Publication date

2006

Document Version

Final published version

Published in

Modernization and Regionalism, Re-inventing urban identity (vol. II)

Citation (APA)

Zijlstra, H. (2006). Continuity and changeability is durability. In Chiu Yuan Wang, & Qiag Sheng (Eds.), Modernization and Regionalism, Re-inventing urban identity (vol. II) (pp. 886-889). International Forum on Urbanism.

Important note

To cite this publication, please use the final published version (if applicable). Please check the document version above.

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download, forward or distribute the text or part of it, without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license such as Creative Commons.

Takedown policy

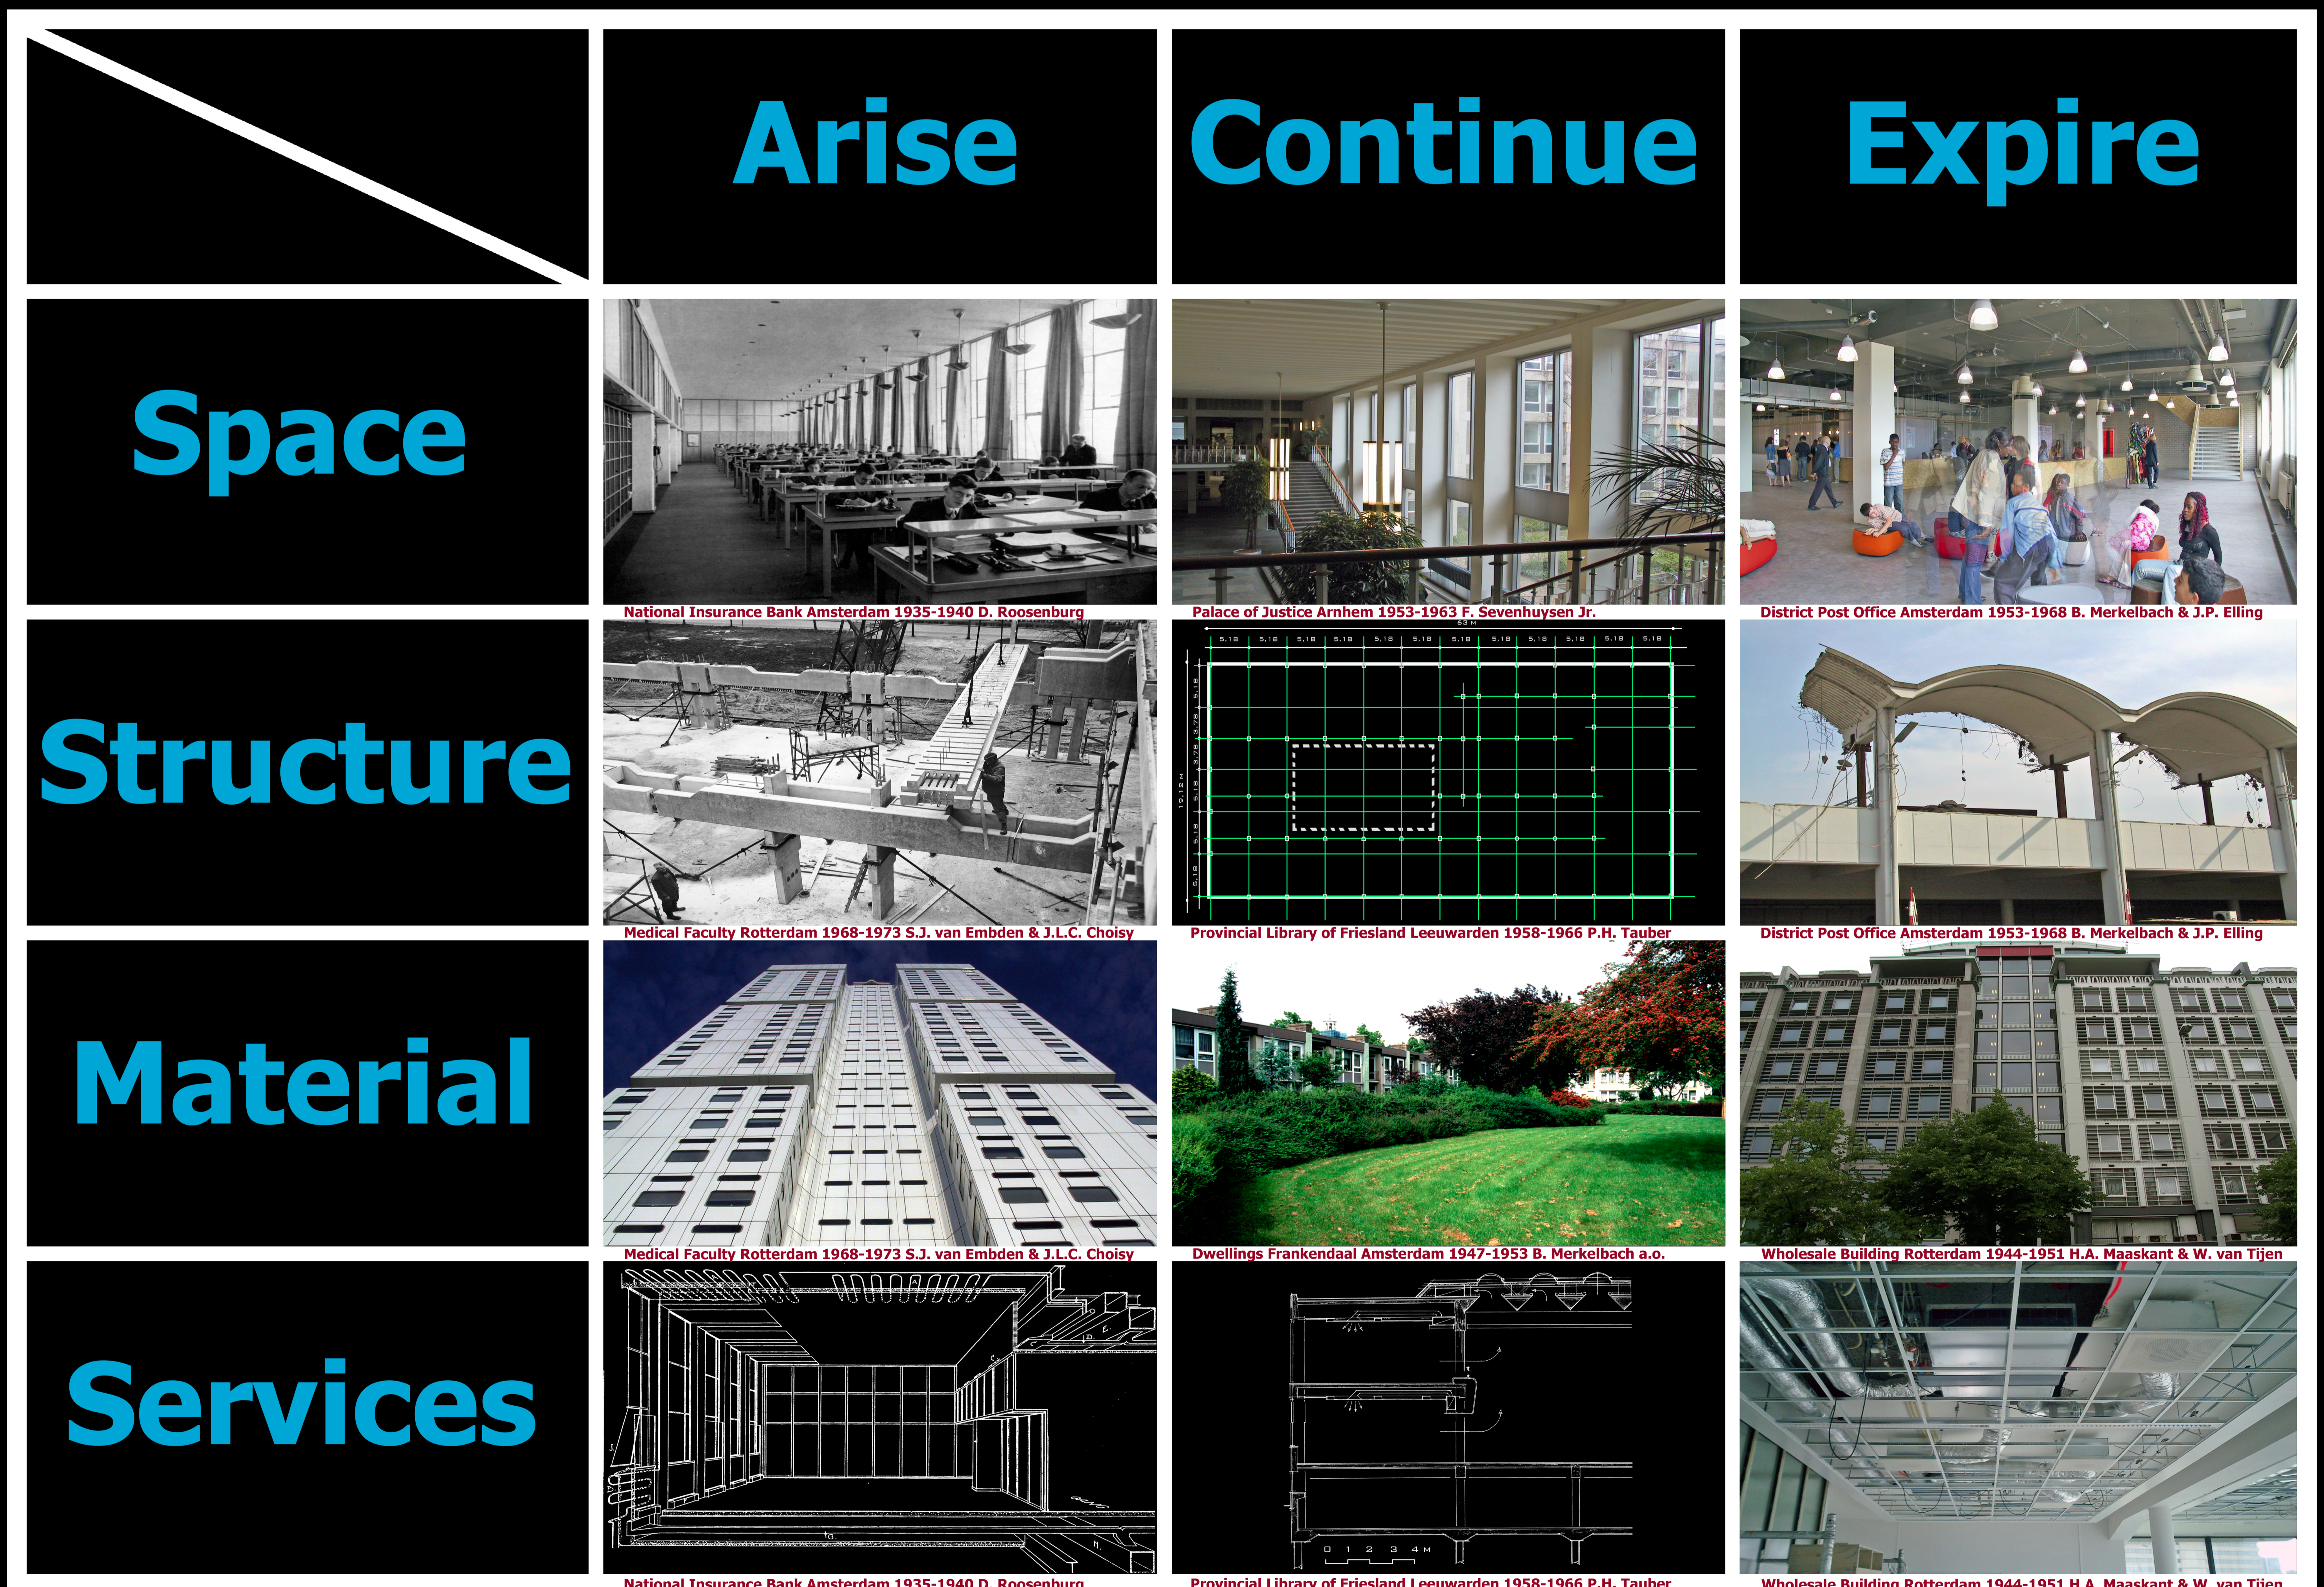

Please contact us and provide details if you believe this document breaches copyrights. We will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Continuity + Changeability = Durability

A research method to try 'to understand the building', based on the PhD thesis: 'Building in the Netherlands 1940-1970 Continuity + Changeability = Durability' A way of investigation by observing and analysing to formulate regenerative conclusions wherefore the qualities are endorsed to create a new base for the possibilities of regeneration

©MIT is an international scientific research institute which is affiliated to the Architecture Department at the Faculty of Architecture at the Delft University of Technology. It is committed to the promotion of multi-disciplinary research and knowledge-sharing in Modification, Intervention and Transformation of the built environment www.rmit.nl

Analysing Building Construction in Time

International Forum on Urbanism 2006 Beijing

Dr. ir. Hielkje Zijlstra h.zijlstra@tudelft.nl

Faculty of Architecture ©MIT

Delft University of Technology